Patron Capital continues charitable partnership in Nepal

We are proud to continue our ongoing charitable work in Nepal, taking its programme in the region into its thirteenth year. Patron's Nepalese education programme has been in place since 2007, and since then has helped to build both schools and the necessary associated infrastructure in more than 30 villages throughout the Makula valley, most importantly after the 2015 earthquake. All of the work with the programme is in conjunction with Nepal specialist and friend of Patron, Seppi Enzo.

Most recently, we have helped to fund the creation and up-keep of a guest hostel which will make sure the centre can be financial self-supported by offering up rooms to guests. A vegetable garden has also been created to allow the students to understand sustainability and provide food for the centre.

The most recent work reflected in the below images includes:

- Fixing the roof to the Himalayan Education Centre ("HEC"), a teacher training college and hostel, our program helped build more 3 years ago;
- Equipping, furnishing and decorating the guest hostel associated with the HEC built last year.

As well as this, you can see from the selection of photos the strong bond we keep with the local families and children who live and work in the Makukla Valley.
