

As part of our Armed Forces Initiative, on 21st November evening we helped to launch the flagship event for the Forces Wives Challenge (“FWC”). The evening was great success with over 70 guests attended.

Forces Wives Challenge understands that being part of a forces family is very much a team effort and a military career demands incredible sacrifice and commitment from the whole family. This transient and turbulent lifestyle creates a dynamic, resilient and adaptable community that have often had to put their careers and dreams on hold.

By recognising and harnessing their unique mix of skills and experiences to overcome an ambitious challenge, it will unite them as a team; a team with purpose that celebrates their drive, ambition, strength and above all - support for each other!

In Spring 2019 a team of Forces Wives will set out on an adventure of a lifetime to summit the world's highest volcano - Ojos del Salado - which stands at a mighty 6893m in Chile. Nothing unites a community quicker and stronger than overcoming adversity as a team. Working together to tackle an ambitious challenge, generating that sense of belonging, camaraderie and teamwork that their partners’ experience in the Armed Forces. Often the ones holding the fort at home while others head off on adventures - now it's their turn!... ... FWC Volcano Video

We have met many incredible servicemen and it is great to see other side, their wives/partners and hearing about their challenges. Great effort by inspiring group of women.

We wish them all the luck!
